MOONFLEECE

BY PHILIP RIDLEY

An abandoned home. A lost brother. A secret love story. Moonfleece is an intense and gripping exploration of memory and identity. The play touches on issues of far-right extremism, racism and homophobia, but its underlying theme is story-telling – the stories that we tell ourselves and each other, and how we use stories to make sense of who we are and why we are here.

HANGMEN

BY MARTIN MCDONAGH

In his small pub in Oldham in the mid 1960s, Harry is something of a local celebrity. But what's the second-best hangman in England to do on the day they've abolished hanging? Amongst the cub reporters and sycophantic pub regulars, dying to hear Harry's reaction to the news, a peculiar stranger lurks, with a very different motive for his visit. This is a dark comedy about vengeance with the top-notch twists, violence and laughs we have come to expect from the writer of many very successful plays and films.

BODY TALK

BY ANDY RASHLEIGH

This is a fun fantasy play, set inside the 'control rooms' of two children- they are inside the children's heads, behind the eyes. Each character - Brain, Mouth, Heart and others - is head of their own department, controlling every move, thought and even breath of the children. As well as the exciting drama onstage, there are sections of video in this unusual and original play.

BRIGHTON BEACH MEMOIRS

BY NEIL SIMON

This affectionate, semi-autobiographical play is about Neil Simon's early years in Brighton Beach, a poor, mainly Jewish-American neighbourhood in Brooklyn. The 'not quite 15' Eugene introduces us to his family household - mother, father, elder brother, aunt and her two teenage daughters - and shares his teenage angst. Filled with Simon's customary wit and well-drawn characters, the play will leave you with a smile on your face and a warm glow inside.
